

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a preamplifier for computer display for transmitting an analog video signal as a result of converting a digital video signal outputted from a computer by a video D/A converter circuit of a digital signal processing IC to a display, wherein an input characteristic of the preamplifier is current input to match a characteristic of current output of the video D/A converter circuit.